

And we will follow after them; never thinking which way to go